

Magnuson Park

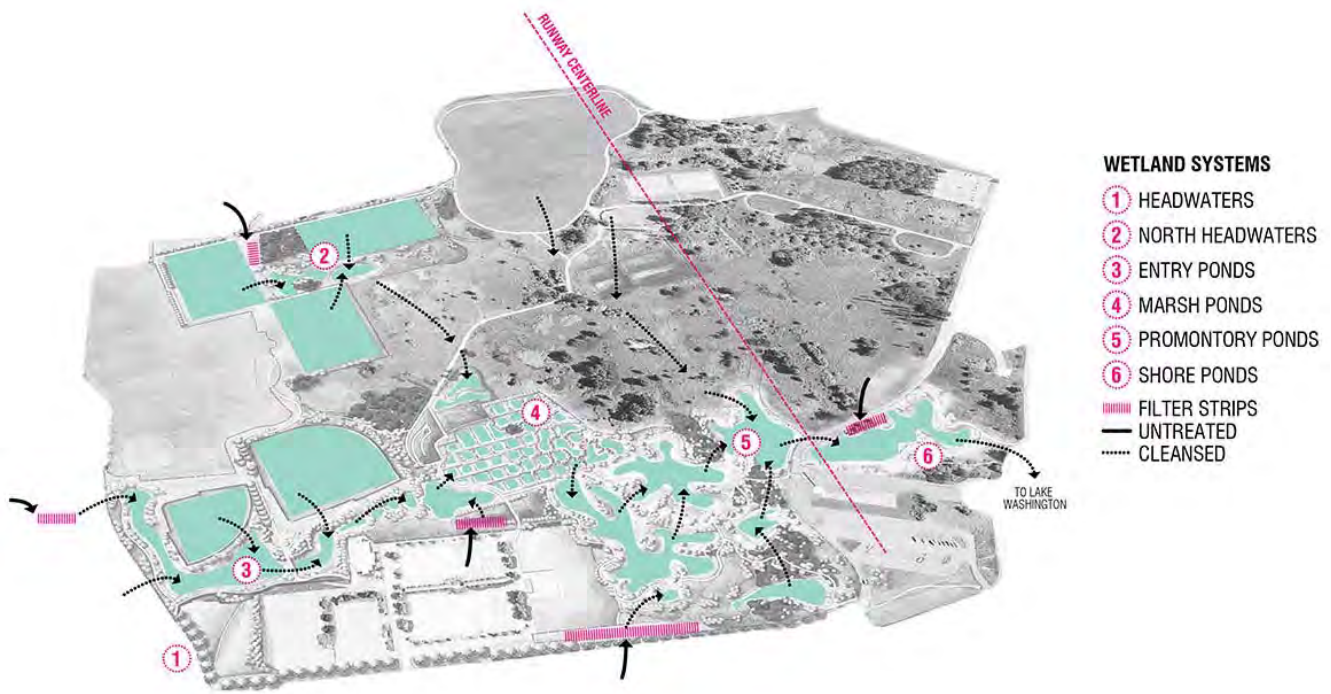

Seattle, WA

A 154-acre master plan is shaping this park's transition from a former naval base into a destination park for active recreation, passive escape and a valued ecological oasis. Completed projects include over 65 acres of wetland and upland habitat, a sports field complex and other park elements, all integrally dependent for function, aesthetic and experience, exhibiting our belief that increased human activity and improved ecology can coexist and thrive. Phase 3 is currently underway.

Featured Park

Magnuson Park is an urban model for enhancing nature, ecology and the human experience.

